How Can Elderlink Help?

You may be experiencing a time of change or uncertainty. Perhaps your parents are dealing with a new diagnosis or illness or are simply getting older and need help with their daily living activities. Maybe you are a full-time caregiver for a family member and need some help so you can take care of things outside the house—errands or doctor's appointments or maybe just a little time for yourself. Perhaps you had a recent hospitalization or surgery and need some extra assistance during your recovery. Whatever your situation, Elderlink is the solution.

It is no secret that most people prefer to remain in the comfort of their own homes as they age. However, the activities of daily living—things we all do each day—may get increasingly difficult with age or illness and may become impossible to do without assistance. Relocating to an assisted living facility to receive help is often the least desired option. With Elderlink, you or your loved one can safely enjoy independence, privacy, and the comfort of home while receiving one-on-one care from qualified, trustworthy caregivers.

About Elderlink Caregivers

Each caregiver undergoes a thorough four-part screening that includes a social security trace, a nationwide criminal background check, a driving record check, and a check of the Colorado Adult Protective Services data system to determine whether they have been substantiated of neglect, mistreatment, or exploitation of an at-risk adult. All caregivers are bonded and insured.

Upon completion of the background screening and employment verification, we conduct an intensive orientation and interview with each potential caregiver. This is when we get to know them and get an understanding of their experience, skill level, and personality.

We value each caregiver who has chosen to work with us. We strive to create exceptional working relationships with all caregivers and to make sure they understand how much they are appreciated. Elderlink is able to offer caregivers competitive wages, usually above the industry average, which in turn means a happy and committed caregiver for you.

Family and friends can rest assured that loved ones are being properly cared for, providing something priceless: Peace of Mind
